

Mathematik und rabbinisches Denken im Mittelalter

Seminar im Wintersemester 2009-2010

Donnerstags, 13.15-14.45, Haus 8 Raum 0.64

22.10.09: Organisation des Seminars

29.10.09: Einführung in die Thematik, Francesca Albertini und Sylvie Roelly

05.11.09: Random mechanisms in Talmudic literature, A. Eichberg, J. Holter

12.11.09: Probability and Statistical inference in ancient and medieval Jewish literature: Decisions and logic, random mechanisms, F. Albertini und S. Roelly

19.11.09: Probability and Statistical inference in ancient and medieval Jewish literature: addition and multiplication of probabilities, S. Pfeiffer, F. Tielker

26.11.09: Probability and Statistical inference in ancient and medieval Jewish literature: Paradoxes, M. Böhm, K. Schemmel, E.M. Wutke

03.12.09: Probability and Statistical inference in ancient and medieval Jewish literature: combinations and permutations, J. Ihde, N. Langer

10.12.09: Stochastic thinking in the Bible and the Talmud, J. Engelhardt, L. Puder

17.12.09: The one and the many : early stochastic reasoning in philosophy,
F. Detjens, S. Pohl

07.01.10: Gastvortrag: Maimonides and Mathematics, Tony Lévy

14.01.10: Gastvortrag: History of the theory of Probability, Oscar Sheynin

21.01.10: Gastvortrag: The emergence of error as a probabilistic concept: early phases, Giora Hon

28.01.10: Rabbinical mathematics and astronomy: mathematics and astronomy in relation to religious legislation, S. Kühlwein, S. Ritter

04.02.10: Rabbinical mathematics and astronomy: Mathematical data and theorems,
F. Neczkiewicz, C. Stöckigt

Interessenten sind herzlich eingeladen.

Prof. Francesca Y. Albertini, Prof. Sylvie Roelly